From the childhood game of tic-tac-toe to the language of design, X's and O's serve as vehicles of communication. FROM LEFT: Madeline Stuart's Alisa vanity chair in polished stainless steel with white leather seat and soft X-legs sits atop Natuzzi Italy's Wonder Central table with a round, black glass top and sleek curved circular base in nickel, 13.5" high, expressing the Italian take on lounge furniture: comfortably stylish and low to the ground. Roche-Bobo's Fun stool designed by Studio Giofra in tabac leather and available in 33 colors of split leather. Baker's new Pagani lighting collection features the Noir Sculpté table lamp with a black honed marble base. The collection is named after designers/artists Stephane and Frouwkje Pagani and uses 4 different natural materials. Century's metal bedside stand from its Metro Luxe collection in brushed nickel finish is structured with X crosspieces and 3 clear glass shelves. BACKGROUND: X's in Studio Bon's "Popover" available through Schumacher. O's in Duralee's Grey Gardens collection by Philip Gorrivan. RUG: "Catella" by Emily Todhunter for The Rug Company.
